Judgment of Henderson Superior Court Adair, Goven Adair and Martin Bainard, for the murder of Silas Weston and his three children, by His Honor, J. L.

I have heard the very able argument of your counsel on the motion to set aside the verdict rendered at the last term of the Court, and grant a new trial of the the Court, and grant a new trial of the the powers of the Court touching the matter of discretion and authority; but upon the second I am not so well satisfied. Inand were at hand, raising a "possibility" that you were not guilty, and that on another hearing such a state of facts might in your fiendish malignity, hurried unbidbe developed as would induce a jury to acquit you of the awful crime of which you have been convicted. The Rule for a new trial therefore has been discharged.

Your counsel have done all in their the various Courts of the State, and no stone is left unturned, no effort withheld years, you have been the willing tool of to so present the questions of fact and law the bad men who have brought you to the as to secure your acquittal, but in vain. The stubborn facts which have paved the way to the gibbet have been insurmountable, and they have at last to give you over to the penalty of the law you have so fatal-

The appeal which you heretofore took to the Supreme Court of the State, after a full investigation of the points of law involved in the trial before the jury heretofore had, has been returned, and the chief law officers of the commonwealth say they find no error therein, and have issued their certificate, instructing me to proceed with the judgment of the law.

At the last Fall Term of the Court-before another presiding Judge, and in a county and before a jury of your own choosing-a patient investigation into the facts by twelve indifferent men, who were made acquainted with your guilt only as it was developed by the circumstances in the progress of the examination, was had, yond all reasonable doubt, that you are guilty as you have been accused. It did to hear your trial before the Jury, but I have examined with great care, the testiwithout doubt.

The details which I find in this testimony of the terrible crime with which you were charged, reveal a scene at once outrage yet chronicled in the annals of the us out. criminal history, even of the most barbarous country on earth. It is doubtful whether ever before, even among savages, most lost to the instincts of our common humanity, so diabolical a murder was ever perpetrated. The very recital of its outrageous circumstances makes the blood freeze, in our veins, and the heart, chilled with horror, shudders at the bare suggestion that human nature could be so debased and wrought upon as to nerve the courage to so desperate a deed. The wonder is that your blood-stained arms did not fall palsied so besottedly debased.

That man should, in the heat of passion slay his fellow-man, we can well under-stand, for it is not unfrequent; or that he might, prompted by malice, waylay him and take his life; or, for the sake of lucre, and take his life; or, for the sake of lucre, and moved by avarice, invade his domicile at the dark, dead hours of the night, and amid the stillness and silence of nature, and the hush and serenity of bustling life, plunge a dagger in his heart—aye, even stife to death, by his side, his sleeping companion, that his crime may go unwitnessed, is a crime sometimes, but selden committed in a wall regulated comately surround in numbers the house of an developed state of your case.

You slew four beings and burned down the house above them that your handiwork might not be suspected, and left the mother and babe whom, too, you thought dead, wounded and maimed for life. You have taken that which you have not the power to returnthe life of a follow-man-over which you issues of fact involved in your case.

I am constrained, from a sense of duty, to refuse the motion and proceed to judgment. Upon the first point raised in the discussion, I agree with Maj. Erwin as to the could not wish it otherwise. It would be it has been forfeited by your baseness and gratifying to know that evidences existed misconduct, and must now be offered on the altar of retributive justice, an oblation

The evidence shows that you were hired to help steal and convey away the brandy, the direct cause of power for you. Your case has been ably defended from its earliest inception through the various Courts of the State and the treffic of your border than the tr gibbet, and now mock at your despair. The solemn duty is made mine to nounce the sentence of the law, which fixes the time when your earthly career shall terminate. It is a sad duty, but nevertheless one that must be performed in the interests of society, law and order, morality and religion.

AN AMERICAN IN JERUSALEM. Present Condition of the City.

A private letter from an American in Jerusalem, under date of March 22nd, gives this account of the present condition of the Holy City:

Jerusalem, once "the joy of the whole world," has fallen low; it is Jerusalem, requently, during my sojourn here of seven weeks, have I ascended the Mount of plives, and sitting under an olive tree, contemplated the great events in the past history of Jerusalem, and endeavored to realize that when the Saviour was upon earth, and when he also walked the same roads I now walk, and gazed upon the same natural scenes; and as I look down upon the city, I think of the words of Christ, while also looking from the same mount, "Not one stone shall remain upon another;" and how true! Nothing now remains of that Jerusalem but the site, now the modern Jerusalem. Often have I entered the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, on Calvary, and there silently mused. The painful minuteness of detail in which holy places are marked out and shown as identical, detracts much from one's enjoyment. I believe the church, or buildings of Calvary, occupy the very rock, but I do of Calvary, occupy the very rock, but I do not believe in the identity of spots to a fractiou. While standing by the rock, which is marked as the very place where stood the cross, I believe one is within a intertwined with as many different species of slender creepers. I have twice explored the extensive quarries under Jerusalem, which bear marks of quarrying as distinct as though of yesterday. They extend probably to the temple, and no doubt were used for the great temple of 1,000 B. C. They are difficult of exploring, as one has in many places to crawl on hands and feet. Another Version of the Hatchet Story.

The Chicago Tribune has a new version of the hatchet story: "Washington's parents were very particular as to little Georgie's playfellows, never allowing any but his little cousins or nephews to visit him. One of these playfellows, and in some way connected, was one of the Custis boys. Among other cognomens bestowed upon this youth at his christening was that of Isaac. Well, Isaac and Georgie were playing together in the orchard on the day when the historic cherry tree was disfigured. The paternal Washington came along, and was very much enraged to see along, and was very much enraged to see his tavorite tree cut and hacked in a very bungling manner. So he said to Georgie, "Come here, you rascal! Who cut this cherry tree of mine?" The object of the Radical party in appealing to the passions and prejudices of the people, by constantly referring to dead issues and losing sight of the present lamentable state of affairs, is beginning to be pretty well understood, even by the most causual observer. Vorhees and the Rads.

As public journalists, it becomes our duty to lay facts before our readers, and give all the reliable news, good, bad and indifferent, as the case may be. This week it becomes our painful task to throw a wet blanket over the jubilations of the Rads hereabouts, in the case of Vorhees and Greeley. Radical judges, lawyers, sheriffs, and even common radical folks who have been interviewed by the officials, have been throwing up their caps and hats for some days, and taking courage that the chances for Grant's re-election are still fair, as Vorhees, an old Democrat, said he could not exactly swallow Greeley, an old Whig, before the Baltimore Con-

But enough, here is the mournful tale: "In order to correct any misapprehension that might grow out of his recent he declares that "the idea that he would under any circumstances support Grant seems too ridiculous for serious consideration and that the statements to that effect are maliciously and absurdly false,"

ONLY TWO GANDIDATES .- The New York Convention, - Grant and Greeley.

INTERESTING TO TOBACCO GROWERS .- The new tax and tariff bill roported by the Committee on Ways and Means to the House of Representatives contains the following provisions:

revenue, a record of all his sales of leaf from the 8th and 9th districts; 5th week, each instance, of the person to whom sold districts. and the place to which it was shipped .-And any farmer or planter who shall produce and sell leaf tobacco without keeping or causing to be kept the book herein prescribed shall be liable to a penalty of not and Willie D. Jones had a fight in the less than $100 nor more than $500."

The Presidential Election. The political campaign is, no doubt opening very favorably for the nominees of the Liberal Cincinnati Convention, Greeley and Brown. Tennessce has led off in the Convention held in Nashville, on the 9th inst, which is said to be an unmistakable foreshadowing of public sentiment in the South,-as Tennessee has spoken, so will every Southern State speak, and we hope the Conservative Democracy in every State in the Union will rally for the Reform ticket. The Indianapolis, Indiana Sentinel says:

convention adopted, and which has secured the cordial approval of the Democracy as well as liberal-minded Republicans.

New York also speaks for Greeley, and Pennsylvania is making arrangements to fall into line. The Conservative Democracy of the great State of New York, in Convention, recently endorsed Greeley and Brown. In the light of such facts, says the Richmond Dispatch, "how contemptible seems the miserable tricks resorted to by the enemies of the South in our midst to render Mr. Greeley objectionable to our own people. We have never known a ticket to gather strength so rapidly as has that nominated at Cincinnati. Nor have we ever known any candidate opposed for reasons more despicable than those which are usually brought to bear against Greeley in the South."

THE FIRST GRAND GREELEY TRIUMPH .-Our very able cotemporary of the Richmond Dispatch, under the above head again speaks as follows: "The re-election of Mr. Ferry to the United States Senate tive Party of the Seventh Congressional by the combined votes of the Democrats and Greeley men of the Legislature of Connecticut is the first grand triumph of the "new movement." It secures to the South a friend in a high place. It rewards an advocate of a restriction of the powers of the General Government. It gives the writ of habeas corpus another supporter, and military rule in the South another enemy. It was indeed a victory worth recording. Surely the Northern Democracy must have their eyes opened by such Sensible Virginians have long since ceased to take counsel of such.

We deem it unnecessary to multiply arguments to convince Virginians that they should support Greeley and Brown at the approaching election. It strikes us that a man with half a head might see his way clearly to that conclusion. It is a self-evident proposition that needs no painful equalled political sagacity which has never yet descried them, and they know it from Walker campaign. We will say this much: that should the Democrats run counter to the expressed wishes of the South, and prove instrumental in dashing from us this golden opportunity, they can never again look for cooperation or support in this section.

We give the foregoing extracts in order that our readers may form a correct idea of the political aspect of affairs .-There are, of course, some selfish demagogical office-holders and their understrappers, in this section of country, as well as elsewhere, who will continue to shout for Grant till their throats are sore; but they are prompted only by self-inter- things, it says that "the Republican party est,-for in the success of the present administration is their only hope of retaining office,-their meat, bread and butter depends on that. It was well known, and often so expressed by him, that he "No nomination ever made has increased in strength with equal rapidity as that of Greeley. The people have full confidence in his honesty, in his capacity, in his fidelity to his pledges, and that he will faithfully carry out the platform that the supported him for Governor, and have been pleased to see him occupy that position, preferred him in Congress, where he has proved such an able member, and able defender of his section. HILLSBORO, N. C., May 8, 1972. was supported by a number of warm friends, who afterwards joined cordially letter informing me that I had been nominated by the Convention, which recently assembled at Greensboro, for the office of Tressurer has been received. The confidence exhibited by the large and intelli-gent body over which you preside, in se-lecting me as a candidate for this responsible position will, I trust, never be abused. It has been my lot to be in public life since the Convention of 1858, and though often unable to prevent legislation which deemed injurious, I have always endeavored to speak what I believed to be the honest voice of the people of North Carolina, irrespective of party. Through you I tender to the delegates of the various ounties of the State my thanks for their recognition of my efforts, and assure them that what aid I can give to the success of ur cause will be cheerfully rendered. The administration which was inaugurated nearly four years ago has been financially Our readers will remember the activated in a very unfortunate one for the State. The speech of Hon. J. M. Leach, delivered in a very unfortunate one for the State. The proceeds of the Public Lands granted by Congress in 1838 to North Carolina and invested for the benefit of our Educational Fund, have been disposed of and the amount realized, or nearly all of it, ($150,-000) paid for Bonds the very name of which are odious to our people. The proceeds of the land scrip granted for an Agricultural College ($122,000,) have been invested in State Bonds, 160 of which are special Tax.

Our public debt is now double what it was in July 1868, (although the issue of several millions of Bonds were prevented by the Supreme Court,) and about the same amount as at the end of the late war, notwithstanding the nominal value then represented. For the fiscal year ending Oct. 1st, 1870, our expenditures are reported one million one hundred thousand dollars. During the the succeeding year, owing to the influence of the election of 1870 the expenditures are reduced to onehalf that sum and will be still further reduced for the present fiscal year. As many of the issues upon which the people of North Carolina have divided are now settled, and the storm is over, and the sky is now clear, and the imagined 'war of ra-ces' has been averted, and the right of the colored man to vote is as firmly established as his right to be free, I think the time has arrived when 'the Conservative Party will be well,' and that all excuses for further postponement have been 'exhausted.'

Very truly yours, JOHN W. GRAHAM.

MAY.

'Tls May, bright May! the merry air
Is full of perfume sweet;
On shrub and tree, 'mid springing grass,
Gay, tinted flow'rets meet,

The birds are in their wildest joy, The blue sky smiles above,
The mountain wears its emerald robe,
And verdure decks the grove. The bees are hurrying through the air.

Bearing the sweetest dew— Fresh gathered from the fragrant flowers— Their waxen cells e'er knew

The insect world is all astir, And in the dancing stream
The very fish seem glad, and seek
To catch the sun's bright gleam.

Childhood, sweet youth, old age, confess
The influence of the day;
And even dying hope revives
Beneath the touch of May.

Two worthies, rather fond of their beer, retired from their regular house-of-call to a field, one evening, and sat down on a bench to enjoy their favorite beverage alone, having previously supplied them-selves with a fair stock. About midnight one of them got up for the purpose of retiring; but not knowing his whereabouts very well, wandered about for awhile, and then stumbled upon his companion, whom he awoke, remark-

"Surely this is an awful size of a room for I canna find the door, and I've been lookin' for it more than half an hour."

"I ken nothing about the size of the room," hiccoughed his companion, "but one thing I see," looking up, "it has a tremendous high ceilin'."

At one of our churches Sunday, while the organ was playing vociferously, a good lady whispering to her neighbor in the pew, had to raise her voice quite high in order to be heard. Corpulent old lady: "I should like a ticket for the train." Booking clerk (who thinks he will make a joke): "Yes'm, will you go in the passenger train or in the cattle train?" Lady: "Well if you are a specimen of what I shall experience in the passenger train, give me a ticket for the cattle train by all means."

A schoolmistress, while taking down the names and ages of her pupils, and the names of their parents, at the beginning of the term, asked one little fellow, "What's your father's name?" "Oh, you needn't take down his name; he's too old to go to school to a woman," was the reply.

A Scotch nobleman one day visited a lawyer at his office, in which at the same time there was a blazing fire, which led him to exclaim: "Mr. ___, your office is as hot as an oven!" "So it should be my lord," replied the lawyer, "as it is here that I make my bread."

As a judge was delivering his decision in a case the other day, he was interrupted by the vociferous braying of a donkey under one of the windows of the court room. "What is that?" testily asked the judge, whereupon the lawyer against whom he was deciding the case, arose and remarked: "It is merely the echo of the court, your honor."

A married lady complained that her husband had ill used her. Her father hearing it, boxed her ears. "Tell him" said the father, if he beats my daughter I will beat his wife." Rather a pleasant prospect for the lady.

A little waif that was picked up in Baxter street, New York, the other morning, was asked if he had a mother. "I dunno, but I guess not, for when I ran away this morning the old 'uns were quarrelin', and father had the hatchet."

A man, complaining of being turned out of a concert-room, said he was "fired with indignation." "If you were fired," remarked a bystander, "perhaps that is the reason they put you out."
